

“The most important function of a team leader is to help the group move through the stages of development.”

SITUATIONAL TEAM LEADERSHIP

Optimize team performance

Congratulations! You’ve been selected to participate in an important business initiative or task force in your organization. Your boss tells you that your leadership will be needed on this cross-functional team. You’re pleased about being selected. Then reality sinks in. You realize that this could mean spending a lot of time with people you don’t know very well, who don’t report to you, and who may have competing agendas. These colleagues each have different styles of communication. Different functional skills. And a different stake in the success of this team.

It happens all the time. A diverse group of individuals are thrown together to accomplish a business goal, sometimes to define and make recommendations about what to do next. What you do next will have a huge impact on your team’s success. You can ensure success with Situational Team Leadership. This program is a unique process for team development and performance. A tool you can use to synchronize team members and the processes that move them through predictable stages of team development. Faster. More successfully.

LEARNING DESIGN

Situational Team Leadership is a core framework of five steps employing several research-based models and strategies. Deliver the program in one day—face-to-face or virtually. LEARNING DESIGN (cont.)

Step 1 PERFORM Model—The first step in the process teaches participants how to identify the characteristics of high-performing teams. Assess current teams for potential gaps and take corrective action.

Step 2 Team Charter—This introduces the Team Charter, a template for documentation of goals, assignments, and accomplishments. Through this process, participants learn how to build and maintain a team structure.

Step 3 Team Development—We identify and describe the five stages of team development. Participants are taught to diagnose the characteristics and needs of any team, and can then deploy those skills within existing teams.

Step 4 Situational Leadership® II—The fundamentals of our Situational Leadership® II program are integrated to match team leadership behaviors to a team's development stage. Participants learn to analyze, diagnose, think about, and apply leadership concepts effectively in any situation.

Step 5 Tools for Team Leadership—The final step imparts team dynamics and strategies for higher performance. Participants are given tools to focus on structuring and facilitating meetings. They learn how to plan agendas, create action plans, and evaluate the effectiveness of meetings.
